Meat Safety

• Many diseases of feral swine are contagious to humans but the meat can be consumed if handled and prepared properly.
  • Always wear rubber gloves and protective eyewear when handling raw feral pork.
  • Do not eat, drink, or use tobacco products when handling raw feral pork.
  • Refrigerate the carcass/meat as soon as possible.
  • Cook the meat to at least 165 degrees Fahrenheit.
  • Wash all coolers and utensils with hot, soapy water and bleach.
